

ABSTRACT

A tool and method to identify a defect in a vehicle through a vibration frequency is provided. To identify the defect in a vehicle, a sensor senses a vibration frequency and generates a signal in response to the vibration frequency. In addition, a signal spectrum analyzer communicates with the sensor and identifies the defect in response to the signal.